

Robe

All of us like sheep have gone astray
Forsaken the truth to find a better way
When I looked up from the bottom hemmed about by lies
My sickness showing through my clever disguise
I heard a word within whispered to my soul
A memory on the wind from long ago
This aching to return buried deep within
But if I could get back there would You take me in
I can hear you calling

All I am for all You are, I wrap my robe of righteousness around Your heart

These idols never loved me but they took all that I gave
And these chains could never hold me like Your warm embrace
And I don't know why You would take me but something's telling me You will
And I don't know how You could love me but I know Your love is real
I can hear You calling

All I am for all You are, I wrap my robe of righteousness around Your heart

Your ring on my finger and Your seal on my head
Your light on my path and Your dreams upon my bed
Your strength in my spirit and Your life in my soul
These chains on the ground and Your love it surrounds me
These chains on the ground and Your love it has found me
These chains on the ground and Your arms all around me
I will dwell with You forevermore

All I am for all You are, You wrap Your robe of righteousness around my heart

You never condemn me, You didn't turn me away
Your open arms, Your open arms
Oh, You take me, You'll not forsake me Lord
All I am all You are
You've given me everything
You've given me everything oh Lord
Such love like I've never known
This place You call me home
Such love like I've never known
You call me Your own
